Your feedback

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   Yes

   Tell us why?

   Minimising waste is essential to a healthy, sustainable, and thriving Auckland. Aucklanders will never think they're ready for fortnightly rubbish collection, so we must urge them to do so. I hope this trial goes ahead and results in the public understanding that they ARE ready, and that minimising household waste is easier than you think!

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   No

   Tell us why?

   Trial is irrelevant as the answer to this idea is NO NO and NO!!

   We need our rubbish collected weekly - that's it. The silly little green scraps bins are dumb and hardly used (look at rubbish days - barely any out when you drive around - your stats are being warped to disguise the obvious!). They blow away in strong winds and animals get into them.

   It is another cost cutting initiative - if you want to cut costs - cut your bloated overhead of middle management. Ratepayer money is not for you to have vanity woke projects.

   Rubbish collection is one of the few services that is useful from council - and now you want to reduce this service!!

   Leave it as is. People will have the same amount of rubbish either way.

   If it changes to fornightly - then rates should be reduced to reflect this change as you are not providing the same service by reducing sercives all you will do is encourage illegal dumping

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   Consistency is the best approach. Having fortnightly rubbish collections with weekly food scrap collections is a no-brainer. Easy to know when collections will be. Auckland Council also sends text reminders when people register for the service.

   If it was being trialled in my area I'd be quite mad.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   I'm concerned whether flatting situations have been considered. We desperately need bigger bins for flatting. In our house we have 4 individuals - that is 4 sets of domestic rubbish, mostly food packaging. A change of tenants will create too much rubbish for our bins which takes months to clear.

   I think if this were a serious proposal you would need to actively consider equipping flats and larger family homes with bigger bins that are equipped to deal with large volumes.

I also have concerns about hygene and foul odors - in the height of summer those bins are gonna get very pongy!

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   No

   Tell us why?

   Fortnightly collection is completely unmanageable for most households – things become rotten and start to smell quickly, and if you miss one collection, then it will be a full month between rubbish collections. If you want to reduce the size of the bins but maintain weekly collection, that would be much more appropriate than reducing the frequency. People will simply litter all over the road and use other bins, because there is only a limited amount that people can change.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   If people or households do need weekly collections, then a higher cost option for weekly collections or something needs to be available. Otherwise there will be rubbish spilling over the streets and smelling everywhere!

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   We need to change behaviour to reduce the amount of landfill waste produced by households. Moving to fortnightly in conjunction with an educative approach would help to divert waste from landfill.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   Education in conjunction with the trial is so key to change behaviour.

   To reduce the enormous amount of waste going to landfill. A trial will establish if this works for all households, and if we don't end up with people dumping rubbish.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   I am more than happy personally to switch to fortnightly, but I am a single person with minimal waste. Not sure how it will work for large families. They will certainly require larger bins

   Even the trial will be successful in those areas, I don't think it will suit in all settings, Apparently we've already come across many times that neighbours dumped their rubbish into our bin because their bin already overfilled. So if the collection changes to fortnightly, this condition will definitely get worse.

   Will you cut the rubbish collection fee in half or less to change the collection to fortnightly?

   Otherwise, the householder is paying the same charge to get only half of the service from the council, which is unfair.

   Also, the landfill rubbish bin will be like a bacterial petri dish in the summer, which endangers householders' health.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   Making such a proposal like this with environmental protection as an excuse is stupid.

   Everyone knows it is more about the money than the environment.

Try to use our tax wisely and efficiently first, and stop being lazy and making such useless proposals.

   I believe Council staff have already made their minds up regarding this issue and that the notion that what is being proposed is genuinely a 'trial' is misleading. What is actually being tested is probably whether or not the people affected will kick up a fuss or not.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   While rates are too high, the Council should first look to back-office functions for cost savings before targeting services that directly affect rate payers. How about we sack everybody in human resources, 'change management' and in public/media relations? They are completely fucking useless sponges and couldn't lift a bin above their heads to save themselves.

   Regardless of the words in the documents, and whether other areas collect rubbish 2 weekly, there are a few services Council should be providing. Rubbish collection is a significant one and needs to be weekly to ensure residents get a necessary service

   There is no way to measure and assure councillors habits will not be merely adjusted through the trial period and areas and produce a distorted result over the trial period.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   No

   Tell us why?

   While I support doing a trial to understand the impacts on waste minimisation, I don't think the selected areas are representative of Auckland's demographic/needs. In the "Have your say" website, one of the cited reasons is younger people in these areas. Assuming the trial is successful, and that permanent roll-out is significantly influenced by the results of this trial, then you have likely ignored or under-represent a segment of the population (opening yourself to judicial review risks).

   Perhaps, there are other trial methods (e.g. region-wide opt in) or expanding the trial areas to be more representative of Auckland's population.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

Rather than just trial one methodology, another viable alternative to fortnightly rubbish collection is to remain on weekly collection but charge much more, along with education/support for people to divert their waste into the appropriate bins. Households that have more waste (and can't or not willing to reduce/divert) their waste should pay more.

You could potentially run these two separate trials/initiatives concurrently and see which one results in better waste minimisation outcomes. Choosing just one method, when there is another viable method, seem like you are trying to head towards a pre-determined outcome (i.e. remove the ability to gather evidence/consultation for alternatives).

   Collecting rubbish every two weeks may cause bins to overflow. In warmer weather, this leads to bad smells, flies, and rodents, which negatively affect community hygiene and living conditions.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   Keep Weekly Collection but Improve Waste Separation

   The council could focus on better waste sorting (e.g., food waste, recyclables, hazardous waste) instead of reducing collection frequency.

   Expand Food Waste or Compost Collection Services

If reducing landfill waste is the goal, promoting organic waste collection or home composting programs would be more effective.

   If you want to cut costs - and you most definitely need to, so should - cut your bloated middle management and the vanity projects that are little to do with managing parks, libraries, pools and other clear central local body tasks etc. Another of these is collecting rubbish - which you are now trying to stop doing.

   The fortnightly rubbish collection is not a doable way for anyone who lives in Auckland region. It will bring lots of health and safety issues to the residents and this Auckland city council service downgrade is not acceptable for the Auckland rate payers, especially Auckland city council has increased significantly massive percentage of rates payment on yearly basis for the last many years.

   Reducing rubbish collection to once every two weeks would cause serious problems. It would lead to bad odours, pests, and more illegal dumping. Larger households would struggle with overflowing bins, and if a family forgets to put the bin out, they would have to wait a month for the next pickup. This plan would make our streets unhygienic and unpleasant.

   Large families produce more waste and hence need weekly collections. I want to pay for one weekly collection. As it is I pick up rubbish off the street and put in my rubbish bin. Fortnightly collections will cause rubbish to smell and attract flies.

   The trial will be an important data gathering opportunity for our landfill operations and sustainability goals and should go ahead, despite the level of negative public interest that has been generated in recent local elections.

   Moving to fortnightly rubbish collection is the most rediculous proposal I have ever heard. Most people like myself believe rubbish collection is the number 1 priority for the council to provide as a service. Moving to a fortnightly collection will mean that bins will be over flowing and smell bad.

   If you Al have a young family or a dog it is essential for disposing of their waste which the new proposal does not allow for properly.

   I think it is important to maintain weekly rubbish collection. Whilst I understand that Auckland Council is trying to steer people away from putting food scraps into their rubbish collection, the use of a kitchen tidy in my kitchen to store food waste is just one more thing I don't have room for in my kitchen. Dividing food scraps from rubbish is one more task that is being asked of the public and some people won't do it, attracting food smells for a fortnight in their rubbish waste instead of a week.

   On the waste disposal side, we need to find more advanced and environmentally friendly solutions besides landfill. On the waste generation side, we need to educate and popularize how to reduce waste generation.

   A pilot program is the only way to determine if the plan is comprehensive, whether other problems may arise, and what measures should be taken to address them. For example, if you collect food waste every two weeks in the summer, how can you address odor and spoilage?

   This measure is putting the cart before the horse and fails to consider the root causes of waste generation. If we encourage people to use food scraps, we should consider why people don't use them. Starting from these reasons, we can help people reduce the obstacles in using food scraps.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   Yes

   I believe we should go ahead with the fortnightly trial, as it would encourage Aucklanders to consider their waste more carefully (either by thinking what other services like recycling or the food scrap bin their waste can go in which are already services available). I think this can be one step towards more people considering reusables or deciding to consume less and protect our environment. I appreciate council is offering extra support to households who are worried they will have too much waste by providing more reycling and food scrap bins.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   To be honest I think it will be difficult for some residents to understand the broader benefits of having a fortnightly collection, so just want to send kudos to anyone helping in this effort and engaging with the public.

   Not enough capacity for families with children. Our rubbish bin is already full every week. Extending to a fortnightly collection would cause hygiene problems, especially in summer when food waste and nappies produce strong smells and attract insects.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   While I support reducing waste and improving recycling, the proposed fortnightly rubbish collection is not practical for many families. Even with weekly food scrap and recycling services, a fortnightly general rubbish pickup is insufficient for households with children, pets, or shared living arrangements.

   I suggest that the council consider:

•Keeping the weekly rubbish collection for families with higher waste needs;

•Allowing an option to request an additional bin or an “opt-in” for weekly service at extra cost;

•Running a smaller-scale trial first to evaluate the real impact on hygiene and public health, not just landfill volume.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   Yes

   Tell us why?

   Auckland has a pressing need to reduce the amount of rubbish - including valuable resources that could be reused, repurposed or recycled - being sent to landfill. Not least because the region is running out of landfill space and nobody wants a new landfill in their rohe. But more importantly, Auckland Council on behalf of Aucklanders has announced a Climate Emergency and committed in a number of ways via polices and plans, including the WMMP & the Climate Action plan, to reduce waste and carbon to better protect our precious environment, reduce the impacts of climate change and make the most of our resources.

   The region has been working towards a Fortnightly Trial since the first WMMP was adopted in 2012 - and now many of the services and programmes to support Aucklanders to minimise their waste have been rolled out (kerbside recycling and rubbish collections have been standardised across the region; a residential food scraps services has been rolled out; an Inorganic Service is available to most Aucklanders; and a network of Community Recycling Centres has been developed and is growing) the time has come.

Many other territorial authorities around the country have been operating a fortnightly landfill collection without major issues - including those highlighted by trial opponents such as fears of a rise in illegal dumping and large households not being about to cope. Research shows that a high percentage of households will be able to cope - particularly if they are supported to use the wide range of services and programmes available. Aside from reducing waste, this is a key reason to go ahead with a trial - council will learn how best to support these households and can test which initiatives have the biggest impact so that should a region wide Fortnightly service be introduced data and households experiences can be drawn on to better inform the design of the service and roll out and to make it a positive experience for Aucklanders.

As a member low-waste producing household, that rarely puts out its kerbside bin, I am very much in support of a move to a Fortnightly rubbish collection - and for council to also use the trial as an opportunity to test ways to reward and incentivise low waste producers. Something long overdue.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

As with my comments above, it is crucial that the council trials and robustly evaluates a variety of ways to engage with, support, educate and inspire Aucklanders of every stripe to reduce their waste, and to have as positive an experience as possible of the Fortnightly Rubbish Collection. It must invest the time and resources to do this.

   This could be offered with a reduction in rates paying for the service. However to not reduce rates and cut this service in half is a disgrace. This will encourage more littering and illegal dumping to make up for it, especially in family households.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   What do our rates actually pay for if you continue to reduce the services provided while increasing rates by 5% this last year. Our city discourages families from living here, removes car parks and builds high density housing with no transport alternatives and now to remove rubbish removal services when we learned over COVID lockdowns that they're an essential service which allows the city to function. Appalling.

   This is a core council service (unlike entertainment) and should be what the council rates go towards.

   There is no chance our house would be able to go down to fortnightly without having a larger bin. Beside this in summer there is still issues with sanitary things, despite no food scraps (there are other scraps which smell which do not go into the food scrap bin.

   How will you manage dumping of rubbish as this will likely be done outside of the specific area. Also the inorganic collection has been poor for the last few years, often with lodging but then no one coming to pick up.

Perhaps you should be looking at the original source of the rubbish rather then the final source.

Note: as with any other consultation from the council, it is likely to be ignored as the decision has probably been made already and this is just a compliance, tick box exercise.

   Keep to the current collection days. While you aim to save money, I anticipate larger number of bins on the street, longer traffic hold ups as there will be more to collect. I don't think rubbish will be reduced. We live in a world of packaging although we're getting better at recycling. Another example of your rubbish plan that is failing is the reduction of the number of bins on the street. I have seen overfilled bins and rubbish on the ground. This is about keeping our environment clean, not just saving money.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   No

   Tell us why?

   We do not support a move to fortnightly rubbish collection in Auckland. While we appreciate the council's goal of reducing landfill waste, a longer collection cycle would create serious hygiene and odour problems for many households, including ours.

   We have a dog and two cats, and we responsibly clean and dispose of pet waste from our yard and litter boxes. With many public rubbish bins removed from our regular walking routes, all this waste must now be placed in our household rubbish bin. Even when bagged and sealed properly, pet waste quickly produces strong odours and attracts flies, particularly during warmer months. Extending rubbish collection to a two-week interval would make it extremely difficult to maintain acceptable sanitary conditions around our property.

   We already make full use of our recycling and food scraps bins, and we actively minimise what goes into our general rubbish. The remaining waste is largely non-recyclable material that cannot be further diverted. Changing to a fortnightly schedule would not reduce the amount of rubbish we generate — it would only make storage less hygienic and more unpleasant for residents.

We support Auckland Council's broader sustainability efforts, but rubbish collection is a core public health service. Maintaining weekly collections is essential to prevent odour, pests, and health risks, especially for households with pets or children. A better path to reducing landfill waste would focus on improving recycling systems, packaging standards, and public education rather than cutting back on an essential service that affects everyday quality of life.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   Yes

   Tell us why?

   Weekly collections are unnecessary. Success criteria should include reduction of cost as well as monitoring of any pressure on public waste outlets. No forgiveness for dumping of rubbish should be provided.

   Green waste collection should also be provided to remove volume from waste.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   Don't revert to weekly collections once trial is completed.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   No

   Tell us why?

   Reducing the collection frequency will likely lead to overflowing bins, unpleasant odours, and increased pest problems, especially during summer months. Many households, particularly families with children, generate more waste than can be stored for two weeks. This change could also discourage proper waste and may encourage illegal dumping! Weekly collection is essential for maintaining hygiene, public health, and the overall cleanliness of our community.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   No

   Tell us why?

   I strongly oppose the proposal to change rubbish collection from weekly to fortnightly. Rates have been increasing significantly every year since 2020, yet the only direct service we receive — rubbish collection — is being reduced. This is unfair to ratepayers. Reducing rubbish collection will create hygiene issues, cause more problems for households and landlords, and does not reflect the value for money of the ever-increasing rates.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   Instead of cutting services, Auckland Council should use the increasing rates revenue to improve waste processing capacity, invest in technology and sustainable solutions, and enhance recycling efficiency. Ratepayers expect real improvements, not reduced services. Reducing collection frequency while raising rates is irresponsible and shows poor governance.

   By focusing narrowly on whether a trial should occur, the Council is effectively avoiding genuine public input on whether this change is wanted or beneficial in the first place. People are being asked to comment on a process, not the underlying policy.

   The proposed trial does not represent any real environmental or cost-saving benefit — claims that it will reduce waste or save money are not supported by evidence. Instead, it risks increasing illegal dumping, contamination of recycling and green waste, and hygiene issues for households.

This approach gives the appearance of consultation without truly engaging with community concerns or considering the full consequences. The question should have allowed residents to give clear feedback on whether fortnightly rubbish collection is appropriate at all, not just whether it should be trialled.

Until there is meaningful consultation on the entire proposal, I do not support the trial or the direction it implies.

   This seems like a very sensible proposal given recycling and food waste services now available. My household of five, including three teenagers, puts our 80 litre bin out once every four weeks and could comfortably put it out every six or eight weeks. This seems a sensible way of controlling council costs and reducing increases in rates.

   I have just recently moved from one of the trial areas. The red bins are already at capacity on a weekly basis and we will see overflowing, people using park bins just to get rid of their waste. The only other way to get rid of excess rubbish is via the dump which is very expensive. Auckland generally has 3 or more people living in a home, many are families, the rubbish bins we currently have on a weekly basis serve the purpose well and fortnightly will not work.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   It seems like a cost cutting decision and the people have not been consulted. Why not put out a general survey asking who would like this to reduce, I would bet money the results would be very high in favour of this not happening.

   Reducing rubbish collection to once every two weeks would cause serious problems. It would lead to bad odours, pests, and more illegal dumping. Larger households would struggle with overflowing bins, and if a family forgets to put the bin out, they would have to wait a month for the next pickup. This plan would make our streets unhygienic and unpleasant.

   Health and Sanitation Risks: Accumulated garbage creates odors and visual pollution, attracting pests such as flies, mosquitoes, and cockroaches, increasing the risk of disease transmission. High temperatures and humidity accelerate the decay of food waste, making it a breeding ground for pathogens and parasites, posing a threat to children, the elderly, and those with weakened immune systems. Musty odors, sewage seepage, and overflowing garbage cans continue to impact the quality of the living environment.

   Environmental and Ecological Impacts: Pests and animals gather at garbage sites, leading to uneven garbage distribution and increased local ecological pressure.

   Illegal Dumping and Control Costs: Limited collection frequency encourages residents to illegally dump garbage, increasing control and enforcement costs.

Public Area and Community Costs: Increased cleaning and maintenance costs for garbage sites and streets and laneways in public areas, as well as enforcement costs.

Quality of Life and Social Equity: High-density housing and communities without private backyards reduce quality of life, resulting in decreased public hygiene and aesthetics. Low-income groups, renters, and those without cars are particularly affected.

Resilience and Flexibility: Biweekly collections are difficult to adapt to during extreme weather, holidays, and large-scale events, leading to temporary garbage accumulation.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

The focus is on "improving waste treatment capacity, achieving harmless treatment and energy recovery", while avoiding landfilling and reducing the frequency of waste recycling.

   It's hard to imagine what kind of public health disaster would occur if garbage were collected only once every two weeks, especially in the summer! Do we only realize the seriousness of the situation when it threatens public health again? The amount of garbage doesn't decrease significantly just because garbage is collected less often.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   Auckland, as a major city, is different from other cities that collect garbage only every two weeks. The population density and complexity of the population structure haven't been taken into account! Many townhouses and rental properties have many tenants; do you know how much garbage they generate each week? With garbage collected only every two weeks, can you imagine where they'll throw their trash? They certainly won't leave it inside!

   Rubbish generation starts at the beginning of the sale process. Everyone needs to be more conscious of rubbish generation, manufacturing, points of sale and households, but stockpiling rubbish for 2 weeks is not a good idea. If households want to put out their rubbish fortnightly because it works for them, that is their choice, but not for council to stipulate that is going to be the new normal.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   In the distant past when rubbish collection people went on strike, there was a stark experience why weekly rubbish collection is best. Flies, vermin, rotting rubbish and smell, and especially in the hot summer months. Not every neighbourhood has strategic trees to place bins under.

If rubbish needs to be reduced, it all goes back to manufacturers and points of sale.

   Keep rubbish collection to weekly. If you want to save money then restructure Auckland Council and get rid of the many pen pushers earning over $100,000 that add no real benefit to the city. Try running the Council like a business, not like the monopoly that you currently are.

   Yes

   I think it's important for us to all reduce our waste and I can't see it being done on a wide scale basis unless behaviour change is forced in the way of policy/process change. People can adapt, they are just adverse to change. I would have loved for our household to be included in the trial (Papakura area - Karaka)

   I can not see that reducing collections will mean less rubbish produced. Our tenants say they will have to take take their rubbish to work and put it in the firms bin when theirs is full.. Some people renting will just let the rubbish pile up on the property or dump it6 in rural areas. I have a connection with a property in the Hunua ranges and this hap-pens now. The registration number of one car seen dumping rubbish was traced to an address in Mission Bay.

   I think weekly is a good amount. But trials give good data so trialing isnt bad. I personally think most people would want to recycle more but the criteria for recycling is strict so its easier to throw trash out. I think if you decrease collection frequency instead of people putting rubbish for collection they will probably dump it elsewhere so it doesnt start smelling. I dont think people will change their habits for good because people are lazy at the core unfortunately.

   Maybe looking instead at ways companies can be convinced to use more easily recyclable packaging or biodegradeable packaging, so the consumer can easily do the right thing, rather than hoping consumers will change habits when they gain little benefit from doing so.

   I'm encouraged by your hint at a lower rate for ultra-low service users. Because I process most of my household waste into compost and into soft plastic and green waste recovery channels, my bins (food and recycling) go out only once every three months on average. Household recycling should be incentivised.

   Limiting rubbish collections is not the source of the problem it is reducing packaging in our present throw away society

   All the food we buy is packaging in far too much throwaway wastage , transfer stations should be free , onusing recoverable items , reducing the need for people to illegally dump, which occurs when people are struggling financially.

   Education on the best way to reduce household rubbish , get the corporates on board to fund the advertising rather than the mindless adverts they spin out , rather have a responsible message, referring to Spark , Skinny and the banking sector.

   It is hard for bigger households to last 2 weeks without a collection

   The rubbish will still be there and generated regardless of weekly or 2 weekly corrections

   I don't believe this should be mandatory for a large city like Auckland. There could be incentives for households to reduce waste and to go to fortnightly collections. However no one should be forced to have baby nappies rotting in a bin for 2 weeks plus. The suggestion of wrapping nappies up is completely absurd and is never going to happen.

   Removing the ability to remove waste is not a solution to reducing waste. I feel that moving it to fortnightly is going to cause the litter issue to increase. Furthermore I lived in hamilton for a period and the fortnightly rubbish attracted pest issues and increased dumping in the dinsdale area. Please do not make south aucklands rubbish issue worse by making it a fortnightly collection.

   The trial will give information on whether the total volumes of waste are reduced in a two-weekly collection. It will also indicate whether there is waste overflowing those bins, and whether more rubbish is dumped in the streets. Part of the preparation for the trial will include "as existing" volumes, discarded/dumped rubbish in those areas.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   A much better way of reducing waste volumes and to encourage recycling, reusing and composting options is to go to a user pays system. This means that bins have a RFID (radio frequency identification) capability so that residents are charged by the bin. I believe that this will reduce waste more than a 2 weekly collection option, whose prime objective is to reduce the frequency and hence cost of collection.

   Another crazy idea that will waste millions of taxpayers money. For starters if you rolled this out, you would need to increase the size of many bins across the city. I know that some areas in the south of the region have only recently started using the small waste bins with the red lids, a lot of people complained about the size of their new bins and that was having them emptied weekly. So, these new bins would have to get replaced in the not too distant future. What a waste of our money!

   With these stupid Urban Density houses that are being built across the city, they're already starting to cause a rot at the heart of our communities. Having fewer rubbish collections in these densely populated areas will lead to street littering and blocked footpaths due to overflowing bins. But the issue would be across all types of hosing across the city. Households generate waste continuously, and weekly collections help avoid overflowing bins. We also live in an area that has warmer months (average yearly temp is mid 20's), waste (especially food) decomposes faster, making weekly collection more critical to avoid smell and contamination.

From your so-called research into what other cities have done, I think you have only looked for data that would support your plan and missed out key information. You state:

'Other cities have introduced fortnightly rubbish collections, instead of weekly. This has shown to significantly help minimise waste and reduce collection-related costs.'

Obviously at collection-related costs would reduce, you are looking to create a 50% decrease in rubbish collections days. Also, it might help minimise waste at you waste management sites. But all that rubbish that won't get collected weekly will either be illegally dumped, cause overflowing bins or burned. Again, none of these things would be great in densely populated areas, you're not really thinking of people's safety and health. I'm sure FENZ's Risk & Management Teams would have some concerns around your ideas, especially when they now have issues responding to events in high density areas due to smaller roads, access issues (parked vehicles), speed management systems (speed bumps) and more traffic.

I know from family members living in other countries that increasing the days between rubbish collections does not work. The cities that did change seen an increase in waste accumulation which resulted in an increase of odours, rats/flies and rubbish fires.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   No

   Tell us why?

   No. I oppose this trial.

   Weekly kerbside rubbish collection has only just been introduced in Pukekohe and has been a significant improvement for ratepayers. Households chose their bin sizes based on a weekly system. The volume of rubbish has not changed. It fills the bin each week, consistent with household needs and the previous bag system. Moving to fortnightly collection will not reduce waste. It will simply store rubbish on private property for longer, causing overflowing bins, bad odours, vermin, and an increase in fly tipping, which is already growing across Auckland.

   This is clearly a cost cutting exercise, not an environmental one. If savings were genuinely needed, council could review the food scraps bin system that very few people use. Reducing a core service while claiming it is about sustainability is misleading. Rubbish output does not disappear because a truck arrives half as often.

I do not support the Zero Waste 2040 policy as a justification for lowering service levels. It is unrealistic and should not override basic public health and service standards.

It is also obvious that the trial areas have been chosen to avoid parts of Auckland where residents are more vocal and politically engaged. This shows a lack of confidence in the proposal and a deliberate attempt to avoid public pushback. People across Auckland can see that this trial is a stepping stone to a region-wide rollout.

Councillors and local boards who support service cuts over service delivery will be held accountable at the next election.

For these reasons, the trial should not proceed.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

The council is choosing to reduce a core rubbish service while continuing to fund a separate food scraps collection system that is barely used by most households. If cost efficiency is the goal, the food scraps service should be discontinued and that waste simply collected in the normal rubbish bin, as it used to be. Instead, council is prioritising an optional service while cutting the one service that every household depends on.

Household waste is not decreasing. Reducing collection frequency will not change behaviour, it will only lead to excess rubbish being stored on private properties. This proposal is not about waste reduction, it is about reducing service and lowering costs, dressed up as an environmental measure.

Aucklanders expect weekly rubbish collection as a basic ratepayer service. Removing it will be viewed as a breach of trust and will be strongly opposed across the region. Councillors and boards who support this will face consequences at the ballot box.

   All that's going to happen is we will see more rubbish dumped on the road sides and reserves. It is already a major issue and problem in our country and you bunch of clowns are going to make it worse. This is not China or India. This is New Zealand, stop ripping us off with your pathetic and woke ideas.

   Rubbish disposal is already very expensive in New Zealand that's why we have so much rubbish laying around our reserves and streets.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   Yes

   Tell us why?

   If the trial leads to increased illegal dumping of household rubbish then it will demonstrate that a two weekly rubbish collection cycle won't be practical. Illegal dumping already costs Aucklanders over $1 m to manage per annum.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   1. Will the rubbish collection component of rates be reduced as a consequence of less service?

   2. Will residents be offered the 240 L bin instead of the 120 L bin to compensate for less capacity.

   3. Will residents be offered education on waste minimisation methodologies.

4. Will council lobby central government to advocate to manufacturers to develop alternative packaging methods that are more environmentally friendly e.g. reconstituted cardboard instead of polystyrene used for packaging whiteware.

5. Will council advocate to government to ban environmentally undesirable packaging in imported goods.

Simply bringing in a permanent fortnightly rubbish collection won't be sustainable without other measures to ensure people have less rubbish to dispose of in the first place. This needs a multi-pronged approach and it will be evolutionary rather than revolutionary.

   Most of Auckland had a rates INCREASE. If you are reducing services but charging us more you owe us an explanation as to where our money is going.

   We are going to end up with hygiene and pest control issues. In the middle of summer 2 week old rubbish festering on the footpath, it will stink to high heaven. The bins are full after a week, it will force people to illegally dump their rubbish which will end up costing the council and the environment. This is a terrible idea and has not been thought through properly.

   Making rubbish collection fortnightly is going to make New Zealand dirty as people are already throwing rubbish on the road and dumping rubbish. Spacing this out to every fortnight is going to be an absolute disaster and people will end up dumping rubbish even more in the streets and in places. I live out in Beachland and around Mariah high there is rubbish dumped continuously. By picking up rubbish less often this is going to exacerbate the problem and make it worse. New Zealand is going to end up looking like a Third World country with rubbish everywhere. You will also be eliminating people's jobs as they will not need to pick up rubbish as often.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   Sanitation is the backbone to minimizing illness in our communities. There are various types of waste that are not suitable for fortnightly collection and may lead to negative health outcomes for individuals and communities. Examples of this are diapers and animal waste. Auckland Council want to encourage pet owners to be responsible and pick up after their pets, yet have removed huge amounts of on-street bins, meaning people have to take this waste home with them. This will now have to sit in a bin for 2 weeks in the heat. Not only will this cause bacteria to grow, it will also have terrible odour impacts. With the intensification of Auckland, there will also be more bins in a smaller area, meaning if any neighbour has pets or babies in diapers, this smell will potentially impact themselves and their neighbours. With the waste sitting for longer, it will also mean the chance of a stray or wild animal accessing it and making a mess is much greater.

Some bins may also become over-full, which will lead to this waste having nowhere to go and needing to be stored next to the bins, leading to even worse impacts of odour, animal scavenge and potential disease.

More thought needs to be given for how to dispose of waste that becomes hazardous to health when left for extended periods, as having human and animal waste in residential bins for 2 weeks is simply unhygienic.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

Allow people to "opt in" to a fortnightly trial, either with a different bin lid colour or some other identifier, while still allowing those with waste that needs to be collected weekly to have that option, to ensure the sanitation of neighbourhoods.

   This "initiative" is going to drive up the amount of illegal rubbish dumping that occurs and particularly in south Auckland which is already suffering from large amounts of littering and illegal dumping. Council resources would be better used cleaning up the areas and making them actual enjoyable places to live promoting the health and wellbeing of those who live there instead of providing the perfect platform to increase adverse behaviours and encourage pests and health and safety risks. Also trialling over autumn/winter when it is cooler vs summer months when pests and smells are at their peak doesn't provide a fair trial as behaviours will be different as will impacts.

   I live in a semi rural area. We see a significant amount of dumping on the verges around our area. This increases in volume around xmas and public holidays when people have more rubbish to dispose of. The change to a fortnightly collection I feel would again increase this dumping. We saw a significant increase when inorganic collections changed to the booked service

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   The amount of waste been sent to landfill will not change people will just have twice as much rubbish every second week. If you have rubbish it needs to be disposed of!

Changing to fortnightly collections will lead to increased dumping and health issues/smell issues due to the lack of collections

   The rubbish bins for most households are full in kne week, with the standard size bin. If people are required to collect their rubbish f or 2 weeks then a bigger bin should be issued at no extra cost to t he rates.

   Also the rubbish draws rats into the area and if not collected in time and potentially over flowing this will be a health and safety issue.

   Trialing this in the summer months is also not the best idea as the rubbish will rot causing horrible smell. Especially with Xmas round the corner. Plus as rate payers we pay for the rubbish collections, if they are done every 2 weeks will our rates bill go down to reflect the money to council is saving?

   I live in the Beachlands/Maraetai area. Each week most of the rubbish bins I see in the Streets appear to be overflowing! Why do you think a fortnightly rubbish collection could possibly work? I envisage more dumping of rubbish in the countryside would be the end result Stupid idea to have fortnightly rubbish collections, it will not reduce the quantity of rubbish being collected unless people dump their waste elsewhere! We see this all the time in our rural area where urban people come at night and leave all sorts of rubbish on the side of our roads! Make it easy for people to do the right thing with their rubbish!

   Fortnightly rubbish collection is ridiculous. Anything you purchase nowadays comes in so much packaging, perhaps it would be more effective to focus on those areas such as furniture coming in massive boxes and packaging. It would also be a struggle for young families who have babies that can use up to 10 nappies a day, that's 140 in a fortnight for one baby alone let alone other general rubbish. We pay so much in rates but you're reducing services.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   No

   Tell us why?

   I strongly against the new proposal of 2 weekly rubbish collection. For a normal household in NZ, we have no other option but accepting city council's rubbish collection service as this is charged on the rates. We expect city council to look after people living in this place, instead of limiting the service to make things difficult. The cost of living is high enough, and now the council is planning to cut down the rubbish collection. This will increase the chance of street rubbish dumping, overfill of rubbish bins, the city will be more untidy as people must find other ways to deal with their rubbish. Aucklanders have received at least 2-3 different bins since the change of rubbish collection policy in the recent years. We do not wish to receive more bins for another policy change as we do not have room to keep them! Food scrap bin is way too small and useless for a normal family to use, more waste ended up going to the general waste bin. In summer time, the bin is easily gets smelly and stinky, which is not good to be held for 2 weeks, it will cause serious health and hygiene issues for people.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

Please do not make bad changes for Aucklanders. Weekly rubbish collection is the basic service that has been running for years and years, and the Aucklanders pay for this service.

Rubbish waste will not be reduced just because the collection is changed to 2 weekly, this will simply make people to hold rubbish at home, and make them live with the rubbish. Since Aucklanders get charged on the rates for general and food rubbish collection via Council service, there is no option to opt out on the rates part to use private waste company, therefore this is very unfair for us to choose what service we would like to use.

   A trial is a good idea to glean information, but I am concerned about the nature of a blanket policy, as I genuinely can not reduce waste due to having a medically fragile child who uses a lot of consumables. There will be some people who can not reduce their waste and the thought of fortnightly collection will be bringing stress to them.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   I currently pay extra to have a larger bin which I fill weekly. I can not reduce my waste due to having a medically fragile dependent. I recycle all I can, I have a worm farm and a composter and grow my own vege (so have minimal food packaging). A fortnightly collection would mean I have overflow rubbish and I would be concerned about maggots and vermin.

   Unless you provide extra bins it should be fine.

   I would want 2 bins instead of one.

   Otherwise you will have increased illegal dumping which we've seen and we have a weekly service. Also having extra bins will help those with larger households.

   You need to take a step back and minimize things like packaging etc. Or make rubbish tips cheaper or free so people can dump their rubbish.

   Many households have no interest in the weekly small bin organic collections. This evidenced every week by the lack of these bins put out for collection. Many household prefer to dispose of their organic rubbish in the larger bin. If these collections are cut down to once a fortnight there will be hygiene issue particularly in the summer. A prime council responsibility is rubbish disposal. Not wasting ratepayers money on non-essential projects like cycleways.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   No

   Tell us why?

   We pay rates for basic services. Rubbish collection

   Is a basic service. Fortnightly collections will not work for larger families, multi generational houses and multiple occupancy houses. Stop wasting money on non essential and often cause based issues and get the basics right.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   Yes

   Tell us why?

   I think that with general recycling, soft plastic recycling, and composting available, most households should be able to reduce their rubbish production so that a fortnightly collection is frequent enough.

   A trial would show whether this is true or not.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   I would like it if the trial covered the Christmas/New Year period - this is a time which often generates more rubbish, and a fortnightly collection may mean bins overflow in the meantime.

   I liked the flexibility the rubbish bags used to give - if you made another bag of rubbish you could put one out, and if you didn't create any rubbish you weren't charged.

   I think the rates have been set for the next year and the Major is just looking to save money for his slush fund. We have paid a huge increase and we deserve to have our rubbish collected every week without putting up with the smell and odours especially during summer months. His plan was always to adopt this all over Auckland and we live in Hibiscus Coast and just got new bins. Thank god I opted for the large one as people will then gets charged to upgrade. The money wasted in his budget is millions on permanent council staff who basically do nothing and can't deliver anything. What about firing all of people in all of your organisations that haven't delivered anything and get back to core services like cutting down trees and pathways and collecting rubbish

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   I don't support this trial because it feels driven by cost-cutting, not genuine environmental benefit. The council already charges high rates for a service that struggles to meet current needs, and there's no reason to believe any savings from reduced collections would be passed on to residents.

   My household has two families living under one roof because of the cost of living in Auckland. Even after paying extra for a larger bin, we still generate more waste than it can hold. Reducing collection frequency would just create overflow, odours, and pests. It doesn't solve the problem; it shifts it onto residents.

   If the council wants to improve environmental outcomes, it should focus on reducing waste generation and improving recycling systems, not by cutting basic services while charging the same or more.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

If the council wants residents to trust this process, it needs to be completely transparent about its goals and evidence. Right now, it feels like a financial experiment disguised as an environmental one. There has been no clear proof that fortnightly collection will reduce total waste rather than just create overflow, dumping, or hygiene issues.

The trial must include:

• A publicly available evaluation plan showing how success will be measured, including environmental impact, community satisfaction, and health outcomes.

• Monitoring and reporting on illegal dumping, overflow incidents, and complaints during the trial period.

• Larger or additional bins at no extra cost for multi-household or high-waste properties.

• A clear option to revert or adjust the trial if negative outcomes are found.

The council has referenced other cities such as Hamilton and Tauranga as proof this system works. However, there is no publicly available data showing that fortnightly rubbish collection alone reduced total waste to landfill. Those councils achieved better results mainly through improved recycling and food-scrap systems, not fewer pickups. Until Auckland can provide transparent, independent evidence that the same approach will deliver genuine environmental gains without worsening costs or hygiene issues, it should not be promoted as a proven success.

I support responsible waste reduction, but this approach targets collection frequency instead of addressing how waste is produced and managed in the first place. Until there is solid data proving this change benefits both residents and the environment, it should not be expanded beyond the trial areas.

   I used to buy trash bags, but I only used one per month, spending less than 200 yuan a year. Now they're forcing me to use a trash can, which has increased the cost several times over, while demanding a reduced service frequency. I have no problem with biweekly collections, but it would be fair if they also reduced the cost!

   Hopefully in time it will help people reduce their landfill waste. If it works in other parts of the world, for example in UK, it should be able to work here

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   YES. Providing all these plastic bins to every household has created a huge amount of unnecessary plastic production that in itself and its production is harmful to the environment. IT will also make people less careful about waste production if you keep offering more and larger bins. All waste collection should be on a 'USER PAYS' basis. Implementing a system like this trial, then saying you will reward low users with refunds means you need a way to monitor it and process the refunds. That creates more work, administration, staff costs and opportunities for misuse and unhappy residents. YES, run the trial but don't expect it to reduce waste.

   Most Auckland households have more than four people, especially those with children, which generate a lot of garbage. From a demand perspective, weekly collection is indeed necessary. Although the original intention of reducing garbage emissions is good, reducing the number of garbage collections is likely to have a counterproductive effect. If there is no place to throw away garbage, people may even throw it away on the street, which will bring greater harm, not to mention the long-term storage of garbage and its harmful effects on human health.

   1. Odour and hygiene issues

   • Rubbish left for two weeks will start to decompose, especially food waste, creating strong smells and attracting pests such as flies, rats, and maggots.

   • This is particularly concerning in warmer months or areas with limited shade.

   2. Health and sanitation risks

   • Accumulated rubbish increases the risk of bacteria, mould, and other pathogens spreading — especially in households with children, elderly people, or pets.

   • It can also lead to more litter if bags tear or bins overflow.

   3. No clear rate relief for residents

- Rates keep going up, yet reducing rubbish collection frequency would effectively be a cut in service rather than a saving passed on to ratepayers.

- Residents might end up paying more for less convenience and poorer living conditions.

4. Overflow and illegal dumping

- Fortnightly collection could lead to overfilled bins and more illegal dumping in public spaces, parks, and roadside areas — creating additional cleanup costs and visual pollution.

5. Unfair for households with higher waste volumes

- Larger families or households with babies (e.g., nappies) will struggle to manage two weeks' worth of rubbish without extra bins or private disposal, which adds further cost.

6. Environmental backfire

- While intended to encourage waste reduction, it may instead push people to dispose of rubbish improperly (burning, burying, or illegal dumping), which is worse for the environment.

   With rubbish being collected every two weeks, it will encourage people to be more conscious of what and how much they're putting in the rubbish, and hopefully will encourage people to use the food waste bins more and also recycle.

   Fotnightly pickups also mean people might be more aware of how much they actually throw out - filling up your entire bin in two weeks (or less) will I hope be a shock / learning for people to start reducing their waste.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   Expand it to more areas to get better data.

I'd also like to see how much waste has gone into landfill since pay-as-you-go (rubbish stickers) ended and the new weekly collection started. I felt this was a backward step in reducing waste. When you have to buy rubbish stickers throwing rubbish out becomes more mindful as you're paying for it out of your hard earned money.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   Yes

   Tell us why?

   We have been on fortnightly waste for a few years up in Whangaparaoa by choice (although now have been forced back to weekly). We are a family of 4 and coped well.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   I do worry about increased illegal dumping.

   I've also noticed most houses around me are not using their compost bin which is such a shame!

   Yes

   Tell us why?

   Using my own situation, I seldom put my bin out more than once a month.

   The other alternative would be a return to rubbish tags to encourage households to reduce rubbish to landfill.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   I think the current system does nit encourage saving waste to landfill. Fortnightly pick-up will reduce costs and be more environmentally friendly. If you also combine this with a tag system, this will encourage households to send less rubbish to the landfill.

   Reducing rubbish to fortnightly does not serve your public. People will start fly tipping their rubbish at public bins even more. If you want to reduce spending, stop planting annuals on every roundabout or public square and plant perennials or even better, get them "adopted" by a business for signage rights.

   This will cause more illegal dumping of rubbish and it will bring rats as per what has happened in the UK. The small bin that we have been provided with from the council will not fit a fortnights worth of rubbish in it for our family of 4 (2 adults and 2 children). Imagine what will happen over the Christmas period! Bins will be overflowing and stinking rubbish will be left outside in the hot weather for dogs, cats and rats to get into. A fortnightly rubbish collection will absolutely NOT keep our streets and suburbs clean and tidy. I'm sick of the council charging more and providing less to home owners. This is an idiotic idea and it needs to be stopped! Just because the rubbish is not collected weekly does not mean the council is reducing waste, it simply means the waste will be littering the environment and streets instead of going to the dump. Aucklanders do not want this!

   It would be preferable to have a pay as you throw system that lets you decide when bin gets emptied weekly. This encourages reducing waste but allows for weekly pick up at times when it's needed. Eg during summer where rubbish stinks and attracts ants and rodents. Reducing rubbish without an instant reduction in cost is criminal during this cost of living crisis.

   I feel that collecting bins fortnightly would increase the risk of mice, rats and odors especially in households that have babies and dirty nappies in their rubbish as I do. I feel the 3 reasons you give why this is a good idea are incorrect. Collecting fortnightly doesn't reduce the amount of rubbish that goes to landfils. Bins are only out on the street for a short period so it doesn't improve the look if the neighborhood. And we pay in our rates for weekly rubbish collection not fortnightly.

   The waste won't reduce but instead there will be two-weeks worth of waste to dispose of fortnightly.

   How does this reduce the impact on landfill? Seems to just be delaying the inevitable with consequences such as increased rodent infestation in our neighbourhoods, thanks to ineffective waste storage facilities.

   Would have made better sense to roll out bigger bins instead of the standard tiny bon in the recent waste collection restructure.

   Lack of communication between departments and the ratepayers who fund them.

   Because for the rubbish to be collected fortnightly, you would need to reduce our rates significantly. We used to pay for our rubbish removal, and the rise in rates exceeded what we used to pay for private rubbish collection. So to now run a trial in those areas, and probably eventually in my area, and to reduce the service being offered after you gave us no choice in the matter, would mean for council not to be criminal, you would need to reduce the rates entirely for rubbish collection by half. I assume council won't do this, so I am strongly opposed to being robbed.

   The decision should be on the individual whether they put the rubbish out weekly or fortnightly. We as a family have more rubbish than what can fit in the bin weekly...more recycling than what fits in the bin fortnightly and have an overflowing weekly compost bin. If fortnightly the smell particularly in summer will be of concern and the increased risk of vermin. I can see that this will cause an increase in rubbish dumping in public spaces just like I saw whilst traveling through Europe recently...the amount of litter was unbelievable. So I don't agree with fortnightly collection.

   It's too little. I don't think it minimises waste it just makes you wait with the same amount you have. Or need a bigger bin

   Nappies and other rubbish will smell. Will cause more rats. If you go away could miss the bin collection and then it will be a month before your rubbish is collected causing more rats. Go back to plastic bags as hard to walk with a pram or wheel chair on footpath when bins are out all day

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   Because rubbish starts to smell and attract pests when it is left for a long time. I worry about the impact on having rodents and pets with rubbish left in bins for long periods. I also believe that we need rubbish every week as often our bin is full week after week and so where would the extra rubbish go, as it won't be picked up if not in the bin. Then I would be charged if more if I got a bigger bin.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   Seems like a way for the council to do less and grab more money, as the rates aren't going down despite having less services available. Rather than aiming to support businesses to create less rubbish, you are aiming to punish those at the end of the cycle who have the least ability to do anything about it.

   Before bins came in i only would fill a bin once a month. I said the new system would increase land fill and for me it does as I no longer worry about recycling as I pay for the bin so I intend to fill it each week. The old system was much better where people paid per bin or bag ...it was fairies and also gave mire choices.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   No

   Tell us why?

   There are many ways to reduce garbage collection, such as the previously implemented system of purchasing trash paper and disposing of it on demand. Because purchasing trash paper costs money, most people will sort their own garbage and reduce the amount of ordinary trash they discard. This voluntary approach is far more effective than forcing a biweekly collection schedule. Furthermore, the current practice of including garbage disposal fees in local taxes mandates that even if residents don't litter and strive to achieve zero waste, they are still subject to collection. This is inherently unreasonable. Changing the weekly collection schedule to a biweekly schedule is an even more draconian and blatant form of compulsory taxation. It can only be said that this is essentially a tax increase under the guise of environmental protection, and this mandatory collection of fees is a practice. Even if residents do their best to sort their garbage and reduce their waste, the garbage that needs to be disposed of still needs to be disposed of. Even if biweekly collection is implemented, it will only reduce the number of garbage collection personnel and vehicle costs for the garbage company, reducing its costs, while increasing tax revenue for the government. How is this beneficial to the environment? In times of economic hardship, is it appropriate to continue to collect residents' meager income under various pretexts?

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

If the government truly wants to reduce the amount of landfilled waste, it would be wise to carefully study whether existing landfill disposal methods can be changed and whether investment in funds and technology can provide a long-term solution. For example, efforts could be focused on establishing advanced waste incineration systems. Many advanced countries around the world (Germany, Japan, China, etc.) have already adopted such systems. These systems not only safely and environmentally process all types of waste, turning waste into valuable resources, but also generate electricity from waste, achieving multiple goals at once. It is recommended to carefully study China's current advanced waste disposal technology, which has already reached the point where waste is no longer landfilled and the existing waste is insufficient, requiring waste from old landfills to be reprocessed and used to generate electricity. Therefore, implementing this type of waste disposal method that imposes mandatory fees in the name of environmental protection is not recommended.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   Yes

   Tell us why?

   The trial will demonstrate how the majority of residents are able to cope with moving to fortnightly collections. In other cities fortnightly collections have been implemented for some time with residents using their recycling and foodscraps bins to reduce waste in their refuse bin therefore minimizing waste to landfill and easily coping with fortnightly collections.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   Looking forward to fortnightly collections being rolled out Auckland wide.

   As a trial it is a good idea to see if this is positive. You don't know unless you try

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   Yes, I note only the positives are highlighted in the info. The negatives would be overflow in the homes, loose rubbish in the environment, and the encouragement of rats etc. People are going to have to be disciplined. Can we do it? Athat remains to be seen. I would include more thorough recycling. Like soft plastics etc. We don't recycle all that we can. It's very slack. Council need to be more disciplined with us if it's to work.

   Hygiene and odour concerns, especially during warmer months when waste decomposes faster.Increased pest and vermin problems, particularly for families with children or pets.Insufficient bin capacity for larger households or those unable to easily reduce waste output.Negative impact on community cleanliness, as overflowing bins may lead to illegal dumping.

   I strongly urge the Council to maintain weekly rubbish collection to ensure Auckland remains a clean, healthy, and liveable city for all residents.

   Fortnightly rubbish collections pose serious hygiene and environmental concerns. In warmer months, bins will overflow, attracting pests and producing foul odours, especially for households with infants, elderly, or medical needs. Reduced frequency increases illegal dumping and contaminates recycling as people cram waste into inappropriate bins. Weekly collections maintain public health standards, reduce landfill overflow, and support responsible waste separation. Urban areas with dense populations generate more waste, making fortnightly pickups impractical. Maintaining weekly service ensures cleaner streets, better sanitation, and a more equitable system for all residents. Cutting back may save costs short-term, but the long-term social and environmental costs are greater.

   For example, my family is quite large, and although we try our best to reduce garbage, the trash cans still can't last for two weeks. If we only collect the trash every two weeks, I really don't know what to do with the excess garbage.

2. Do you have any other feedback on the proposed trial for the council to consider?

   If a bi-weekly garbage collection system is to be implemented, it would be desirable to have flexible garbage disposal methods so that people with a greater need to dispose of their garbage have other places to go after their own garbage bins are full (even if it requires payment). This would also reduce dumping caused by collecting garbage only once every two weeks.

1. To help understand the impacts on waste minimisation, do you think we should trial fortnightly rubbish collection in selected areas?

   Because large pacific and Māori families live in small houses in this area. I used to work in a childcare centre in this area and knew of families which had 20 people living in a three bedroom house. All that's going to happen is they will have piles of rubbish with no where for it to go. There are a lot of dogs that roam and get into rubbish, it will smell and attract flies. A really unhealthy situation for the community. If the council wants to limit how much rubbish it pays for it could have a cap on the amount of free rubbish and then people have to buy rubbish bags if they have additional rubbish but again in low socioeconomic areas that is another expense that people can't afford.

   With summer fast approaching, the introduction of fortnightly waste collection is going to cause issues such as odour and maggot. Now with higher residential density in Auckland, bin locations are designed to be much closer to houses. This will significantly affect the residents living in those areas. In addition, the reduction in frequency in waste collection is unlikely to significantly reduce the demand for rubbish collection or people's behaviours on waste disposal (similar to the introduction of food scraps bin where it increases the costs for individuals, thus resulting in less use of the food scraps bins).
